

Lieutenant General Anthony R. Hale
Headquarters, Department of the Army
Deputy Chief of Staff for Intelligence, G-2

Lieutenant General Anthony R. “Tony” Hale became the US Army’s 48th Deputy Chief of Staff for Intelligence, G-2 in January 2024. He is the Senior advisor to the Secretary of the Army and Chief of Staff of the Army for all aspects of Intelligence, Counterintelligence and Security, and responsible for the training, equipping, policy and oversight of an Army Intelligence and Security Enterprise of more than 60,000 Soldiers and civilians. Before this assignment, he was the Commanding General and Commandant of the United States Army Intelligence Center of Excellence and Fort Huachuca.

A career intelligence officer, Lieutenant General Hale served in numerous command, staff, and operational assignments. His command assignments include Commander, 704th Military Intelligence Brigade, United States Army Intelligence and Security Command, Fort Meade, Maryland; and 519th Military Intelligence Battalion, 525th Battlefield Surveillance Brigade, XVIII Airborne Corps, Fort Liberty, North Carolina. He also served as the Director of Intelligence, J-2, of United States Special Operations Command; Deputy Chief of Staff, Intelligence, Resolute Support, United States Forces - Afghanistan; Director of Intelligence, J-2, of Joint Special Operations Command; and Aide-de-Camp to the 36th Chief of Staff of the Army. Other key intelligence assignments include service in Germany, Korea, Maryland, and Georgia.

His operational deployments include Operation Joint Endeavor and Operation Joint Forge (Bosnia), Operation Joint Guardian (Kosovo), Operation Enduring Freedom (Afghanistan), Operation Freedom’s Sentinel (Afghanistan), and Operation Iraqi Freedom.

Lieutenant General Hale earned his commission in the Military Intelligence Corps through North Carolina State University in 1990, where he holds a Bachelor’s Degree in Political Science. He holds a Master’s Degree “with Distinction” in National Security and Strategic Studies from the United States Naval War College.

Lieutenant General Hale is married to the former Stacey Renee Tayloe of Ahoskie, North Carolina. Ms. Hale, a licensed clinical social worker, serves the Army as a DA Civilian with over 25 years of federal service. She is currently serving as the Director of Operations and Plans for the Army SHARP program.
